

Tim Taylor, Senior Vice President & Chief Supply Chain Officer

Tim joined Jockey in 2014 as Managing Director of Global Sourcing and Asia Operations. In August of 2017 he was promoted to Senior Vice President and Chief Supply Chain Officer. Tim is responsible for Jockey's end-to-end supply chain operations where he oversees Global Sourcing and Production, Corporate Planning, Product and Material Development, Technical Design Services and Distribution.

Prior to joining Jockey, Tim worked as a Managing Director of Quiksilver Asia Sourcing (based in Hong Kong), where he was responsible for Global Product Development and Production, Materials, R&D, Technical, and Quality needs for the Quiksilver, DC and Roxy brands.

Tim has a Bachelor's degree from Monash University (Australia), a MBA from the Melbourne Business School (Melbourne University) and APICS certification in Production and Inventory Management. Tim's favorite part about working for Jockey is being able to work "for an iconic global brand that makes great products, has a rich history, is committed to its employees and consumers."