Session description:

Managing supply chain talent today is harder than it ever has been. Baby boomers are retiring, there's the managerial gap, and the supply chain industry is struggling to make competitive offers. Come learn from your executive peers proven strategies for recruiting and retaining talent, as well as how to build a culture that keeps employees motivated, engaged, and feeling valued.

Key takeaways:

- A data-based assessment of the global employment situation.
- The strengths of millennials.
- How to attract and retain your organization's future leaders.
- Addressing the managerial gap in mid- and senior-level positions.
- The benefits of a shared-services model to free you for more value-adding activities.
